

Technicians supporting practical work in the classroom

Science
LEARNING PARTNERSHIP

Why attend?

Evidence shows that practical work has a positive impact on student attainment. This course aims to develop your understanding of the importance of practical work in the classroom and its impact on learning. You will improve your knowledge of a range of practicals and develop the skills, knowledge and strategies to support students and teachers effectively.

This will be a great opportunity for you to network with other local science technicians and share examples of good practice.

Outcomes and details

You will be able to:

- ▶ describe, evaluate and apply effective strategies for working with teachers and students in practical work
- ▶ work towards implementing the new skills and knowledge acquired on the course
- ▶ build your confidence in working with teachers, students and practical activities
